It is with great excitement and honor that I welcome you to the inaugural issue of Journal of Federal Medical College (JFMC), a new platform dedicated to advancing the frontiers of medical knowledge, research, and practice. Our mission is to provide a space for high-quality, innovative, and impactful research that fosters collaboration across the medical community and informs best practices in patient care.

In an era of rapid technological advancements and evolving healthcare challenges, JFMC aims to be at the forefront of disseminating research that addresses the most pressing issues in medicine both basic and clinical sciences. From breakthrough clinical trials to groundbreaking studies in public health to interesting studies in basic subjects, we are committed to publishing work that not only deepens our understanding of disease but also improves the lives of patients around the world.

We have assembled a diverse and distinguished editorial board, representing a broad spectrum of specialties and research disciplines, to ensure the highest standards of scientific integrity and rigor in every article we publish. Our peer review process is designed to be thorough yet fair, with the goal of supporting researchers at all stages of their careers.

As the Chief Editor, I invite you to submit your best work to JFMC and to join us in building a journal that will serve as a trusted resource for healthcare professionals, researchers, and policymakers alike. Together, we can advance the future of medicine and make a lasting impact on global health.

Thank you for your support, and I look forward to the contributions that will shape the success of this journal.

Warm regards,
